

Their Kings

Limited scopes of influence

Finite time spans of rule

Specific boundaries of power

Dictates all interactions

Restrict access to themselves

They command and you come

Vindictive when ignored

Live in opulence at all times

Never goes hungry regardless of others needs

Takes pride in their authority over others

Uses servants without regard for their needs

Removed from their subjects sufferings

Wear many elaborate garments

Never soil their clothes with work

Never touched by a dirty hand

Has clothes that have never been worn

Summons their subjects to come to them

The subjects travel alone to meet the kings decree

No concern for the welfare of the traveler

Subjects leave the kingdom and travel back to their home along

Live and die

Fade into history and have little or no impact on today

My King

Impacts every thing and every moment in time

Eternal ruler

Limitless power

Always wants to see me

Open access to His throne at all times

Calls out to me in love

Still loves me when I rebel

Knows what it is like to be in need

Feeds His children first and tends to their every need

Left His position of authority and came as a servant

Serves others in spite of the cost to Himself or their positions

Knows His subject's every need and has suffered the same needs Himself by CHOICE

His robe is worn from use but beautifully crafted

The bottom of his robe is dirty from walking my roads

His robe is smudged from my hands and from wiping my tears

He puts his robe on me to cover my nakedness

Left His Kingdom and went in search of me

Travels with me all the way

Protects me during the journey to His home

Brings me personally to His home to STAY and makes His home my home too

Lived, died, and is alive and well today

Still impacts every one and every moment in time, including all my tomorrows

He is the King of kings and Lord of lords and still He cares for me today!

Where is your King? On the throne or in the grave?
