

Coming to you once again, this is I Witness News, with a breathtaking development. We have just seen the Red Sea is parting and making a path right down the middle. To top that off folks, the path is DRY! Wait, I can see a large group of people moving across that path. Let's see if we can speak to one of them. You madam, what is your name?

My name is Miriam.

Can you shed any light on what is happening here today?

My family and I were being seriously abused and God told my brother Moses to get us out of there.

Which of these people are your family, and where did your family come from?

They are all my family and we just came from Egypt.

These are ALL your relatives? Talk about a family reunion. But how did you get the water to pile up like this and have dry land to walk on?

Oh, we didn't do it. In fact we were in mortal terror when we got to the sea. You see, we only left Egypt a short time ago and knew that Pharaoh was sending his army out to bring us back or kill us where we stood. We thought we were done for, but God told my brother Moses to stretch out his staff toward the water and He parted it.

Who is this Moses? I would love to meet the man who parted the water like this. Is he around somewhere?

Moses is over there but he isn't the one who parted the waters, God did. Moses just did what he was told to do. We are really grateful that he was listening because none of us knew what to do.

I think we have run into this God person before. We met Him right after creation and then again at the start of rain. Wow! Does He always do this sort of stuff?

Not all the time, but when He does it is something to see.

This reporter is going to be hanging on the edge of her seat to see what God does next. Stay tuned to I Witness News for more breaking news.
