

Story Time!

We settle into Your comfy chair
Bring the scrapbook out to share
I look at the book You now hold
Remembering stories already told
I snuggle in waiting to see
What today's story will be?
Your gentle voice sets the stage
As You carefully choose the page
It's a familiar story today
But it's told in a brand new way
Your stories full of wonders to see
As You point out the pictures for me
WOW! I never saw that before!
Now what? Where? Tell me more!
You never tire of the stories we share
Retelling always with loving care
Each story is special to me
They're of Your love given so free
How You cared for me always
Showed Your love in amazing ways
"The End" is never said by You
For our story's still being written a new
Each day as I come to Your chair
You're always patiently waiting there
"I'm so glad to see you today"
"Climb on up. How long can you stay?"
